

Keep Pests Out

Stay healthy and save money.

It's never fun to find cockroaches, flies, mice or rats in your home or business. Once these pests make themselves at home, they can be difficult to get rid of. They can harm the health of your family or customers.

Help prevent or manage a pest problem with these steps:

Don't feed them.

Keep your home and business clean.

Store food in containers with tight lids.

Remove any standing water and fix leaky pipes.

Clean floors, equipment, grease traps and garbage areas regularly.

Look for openings where pests can enter.

Seal openings with putty or plastic wood.

Add a screen to windows, doors and other openings.

Put door sweeps on all doors that open to the outside.

Be careful with pesticides.

Use only as instructed. Pesticides can harm people and pets if used incorrectly.

Do not use in food establishments without professional pest control help.

Work together.

Save money and stop pests from returning.

Coordinate pest control with others in your building and neighborhood so they don't just go next door.

Already infested? For more information contact your pest control service or go to tpchd.org/food.